HEALING WOMEN, RESTORING LIVES

Reintegration Program at the Danja Fistula Center

One of the most devastating aspects of fistula for women is the social isolation that often comes with the injury, coupled with a loss of financial support from family. Often, we hear of women coping with this injury who have been sent away from their family, and who must suddenly find a way to support themselves removed from traditional support systems.

WFF is committed to providing "Whole Person Care," to women suffering from a fistula injury. As Danja Fistula Center has become known as a "last chance" option for women with particularly complicated fistulas and women who have previously undergone multiple unsuccessful fistula repairs, this approach has particular significance. The more traumatic a woman's experience, the more important it is to create a treatment plan that will address the myriad difficulties faced by women with fistula.
